Not all vacations need to be in sunny, farflung locales. Sometimes, the best family getaway is a mountain adventure. Alpine Falls Ranch in rural Superior, Montana, is just what the doctor ordered for a family-friendly resort out in the open countryside. Take in the beauty of western Montana, where, regardless of the season, multigenerational families will find plenty to do on this 250-acre property.

Accommodations begin with a glamping option for $400 per night and span to the lavish Mountain Mansion, starting at $3675 per night. The three-story, 9,637 square foot home with a fireplace, five unique bedrooms, a clawfoot soaking tub and plenty of rustic charm, is a huge step up from the cozy cabins or bunkhouse, as well.

Whether it's white-water rafting, snowmobiling, cross-country skiing, horseback riding or simply making s'mores over the fire pit, Alpine Falls Ranch allows you to embrace your country western side. The resort recently launched an all-inclusive package, available for guests with a four-night stay, and includes all meals, as well as a daily activity for your group.
